Aquila® RE05F industrial glove

– cut resistant level 5 with double coated foam nitrile

The specialist market leading Aquila® brand are delighted to announce their RE05F cut level 5 industrial glove for optimal hand protection and comfort. RE05F is especially suited to arduous situations such as recycling plants, metal fabrication and metal stamping, or general handling of oiled parts, machines and equipment where it provides personal hand protection to a high level in conformity with regulatory requirements.

The Aquila® RE05F industrial glove features a 13 gauge Alkimos® level 5 cut resistant liner with double level nitrile coating which provides excellent abrasion resistance and grip levels. The EN388 (level 5) cut resistant liner is used throughout the glove for 100% protection, while the unique two-layer nitrile ¾ foam and full flat dipping technology ensures the glove is waterproof and chemically resistant with excellent fit and feel.

Aquila® gloves for personal hand protection provide an optimised grip and comfort level with high levels of mechanical protection, e.g. cutting and puncture. The high performing cut resistant Alkimos® yarn employed is exceptionally stable and consistent for a high quality performance and feel. In addition its unique washability of up to 14 times without compromising the cut resistance substantially increases the cost-effectiveness of the glove. Aquila® exclusive spinning and knitting technology ensures that RE05F gloves are extremely soft so enhancing comfort and minimising hand fatigue after long working periods.
